A PARTING WORD FROM THE HULLS.

We have come to the end of our residence in the town of Hondo after having spent three happy and pleasant years as the pastor of the Hondo Methodist Church, and the time has come for us to take up our residence elsewhere. We wish to say to the membership of our church, and our friends in general, that our stay among you has been delightful and pleasant indeed, and we shall always hold dear and loving remembrances of our stay among our members and friends at Hondo. By the time this article is read, we shall be in our new field of labor, if the Lord wills, making new acquaintances and new friends, but we shall never forget our old friends at Hondo. We appreciate the many kindnesses and courtesies that have been shown us while in Hondo, and though we shall be making our residence elsewhere, we trust that we shall still be remembered by those who have known and loved us.

We wish to express our most hearty appreciation and thanks to those who have helped to make possible our glowing report to the Annual Conference that recently closed at Houston, Texas. In spite of the fact that a few weeks before Conference, it looked as if we were not going to be able to report our church financial obligation in full, the pastor was sent to Conference, reporting all finances paid in full, and making a very acceptable report in many ways. We surely appreciate the most hearty and loyal cooperation that was given us, in helping us to make possible our report.

We wish to express our appreciation and thanks to Mr. Davis, Editor of the Anvil Herald, for the generous space that he has given us for our church news during the past three years, for he has been very liberal in the space that he has given us. In fact, he has never limited the writer with his articles, but always welcomed every article sent in.

Hondo is going to have a new Methodist preacher by the name of Highsmith, coming from Taft, Texas, where he had a very successful and prosperous church. It is the wish of the out-going pastor that the people of Hondo will receive him and his good family with the same outstretched arms of welcome that was given me and my family when we landed into our new charge at Hondo, three years ago. The new pastor and his family are worthy of every kindness and courtesy that can be shown them, and our departing wishes are that God will pour out his blessings upon the church and town of Hondo, and that brotherly love and charity may prevail among you all.

Signed:
SHAN M. HULL.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH.

"I attend Church when I can, and do for the Church what I can, because I believe in it. I have found nothing in my religion that has interfered with my progress for a single moment. I have never been held back from a single opportunity. It has been my source of inspiration and strength and comfort, and I should be an ingrate and a fool to desert it now. Criticized, derided belittled, ridiculed, and mocked as it is, the Church stands for all that is finest in our thoughts. It is still the mother of our greatest sons and daughters."—Edgar Guest.

This man is only one of numberless souls who have found the institution of Christ for saving souls the source of peace and hope for his life seriously cannot but reap the blessings from his association with the Christian Church. "I love the

The Rev. F. M. Hudspeth, recently appointed to Hondo and Uvalde was joyfully received by the negro constituency and has taken up residence in Hondo.

The negro minister comes highly recommended by the white citizens of Hubbard as well as by his own people. His spiritual, social and civic activities have invariably contributed to general improvement of his race group.

The Rev. Hudspeth also enjoys national reputation as a Boy Scout leader and general improvement of the negro youth has been noted wherever he has served.

CELEBRATION POSTPONED.

Owing to the inclement weather Tuesday, the muddy roads, and the prospects of continued cold, drizzly weather, the celebration of Armistice Day was postponed from Wednesday, November 11th, to Sunday, November 15th. It is planned to carry out the program on that day complete in all particulars except that the dance, which was held Wednesday night as advertised and at which Jimmie Klein furnished the music, will be superseded Sunday night by a dance at which Slick Jones and his San Geronimo Night Owls will do the hootin'.

Therefore, all who planned to have a good time at the celebration Wednesday can still enjoy it by coming Sunday. Remember, practically the same program all day, no admission charges to the grounds, an elegant dinner at noon served by the Catholic ladies and at a moderate price, and a day of enjoyment for all.

Come; Hondo welcomes one and all.

QUIHI NOTES.

And after this, Abraham buried his wife Sarah in the cave of the field of Machpelah before Mamre.
Gen. 23:19.

And so Abraham buried his only true love, his life-mate, with tears and sincere sorrow, but as one of those that have no hope. After this, after some higgling and haggling, with a good deal of boquet throwing and salesman's pleasantries by the children of Heth demanding a rather exorbitant price for that burial-place with the smile of ill-concealed greed. Abraham could afford it. Not a few dread the question of burial for lack of funds. Many are rushed away from the morgue into the paupers' corner, the potters' field, with no one to weep. And today, on Armistice Day, we cannot but think with a heavy heart of those who sleep in the poppy-fields of Flanders and elsewhere, "unknell'd, uncof-fin'd and unknown", the victims of pride and greed and hate and the lying propaganda, that war might end war. They seem to have died in vain, for the world does not look a bit different than before their untimely death. We find no record of Sarah's funeral rites with the throngs of people high and low.
Everybody knew her and the tribal prince, a few drop in for good measure, for business prospects, for formal sympathy or to see a few friends that only become visible at these occasions. The dead travel, oh, so fast, from the memory and they are worthy to receive at least a one day's full recognition. And nothing said about the flowers and wreaths that often come belated, having been forgotten or denied in lifetime. It's good for your heart to bring that last tribute with a silent tear of regret and sorrow. Wonder how often Abraham and his offspring knelt at that tomb, tearful, prayerful, thankful for what she had been and done by the grace of God, a God who makes for gladness, not for sadness, for life, not for death with Sarah and you. Blessed moments in God's acre when the soul can look beyond death and decay and the skyline and, in the afterglow give them eternal life.

Again an obituary had to be written for this issue. Elmer Loessberg left his earthly home at an early age and rather unexpectedly. He died at a San Antonio hospital where he lingered the last few weeks. Many had come to do him the last honor.
May the Lord comfort his folks in their sad bereavement.

The Armistice Day programs were considerably changed or even canceled by the rain and many had a chance, if they cared to, to bend the memory on the real purpose of the day: To live in peace with each other and with the world at large, so that the supreme and terrible sacrifice has not been made in vain. And this world will never see peace until the principles of the Prince of Peace are applied to heart and action.

Many were there to follow the discourse and excursion of Rev.
Bracher while dilating on his recent trip. There were eye-openers for many. And though the program of the League had to be somewhat curtailed, there were many numbers that gave the evening its usual setting.
Thanks. The new assignments are these: Recitation, Emil Mummie, Lester Saathoff; select readings,
Mrs. Roy Dailey, Roy Bohlen; vocal selections, Mrs. Albert Reus, Mrs.
Alfred Boehle; instrumental, Mrs.
Alfred Saathoff.

HONDO P. T. A. MEETS.

The Parent-Teacher Association of Hondo High School met in regular session Monday of this week at the school auditorium. The meeting opened with the assembly singing, under direction of Miss Wilma Spratt. An entertaining program was presented by the members of the third grade. This grade also won the book award with sixteen mothers present. In the business session the report of the executive committee was made, and the result of the Hallowe'en Carnival announced. A sum of $207 was added to the club treasury. It was voted to give each grade $10.00 for the purchase of books, to come out of the proceeds of the Carnival and which will amount to $120.00.

Mr. Tom Laxson gave a brief talk on "Honesty".

Mrs. M. L. McDowell, president, announced the next Medina County

Hope is its own exceeding great

Who barter principle for place or

Gratitude for service rendered,

WILL YOUR NAME BE NEXT?

The past summer was one of the worst on record in the matter of automobile accidents and deaths.

And the most dangerous driving months are still to come—the months of rain and ice, and few daylight hours.

Every season sees better, more scientifically designed highways—and yet accidents grow worse, both in number and severity. Every year sees stronger, more easily controlled, and mechanically safer cars—yet the carnage grows.

It is true that a percentage of accidents can be directly attributed to mechanical failures of automobiles, or to road conditions. This percentage marks but a very small part of the total of crashes. The human element is responsible, and alone responsible, for the great majority of accidents, minor or major.

Worst menace of all is the driver who attempts to push the throttle through the floor-board—who operates his car at excessive speeds. And excessive speed is a flexible term—there are times when fifty is safe, and fifteen too fast.

Then there are the drivers who pass on hills and curves, who hog the centerline, who allow their car to wander on the wrong side of the road —and drivers who commit a thousand and one driving errors that may save a minute, and may also send themselves and others into eternity.

You see many headlines like:
"Five Killed When Cars Collide."
You read the names of the victims, go on to other articles and forget all about them. Next time you see such a headline just reflect that your name, or the name of a friend or loved one, may be in the next similar list of corpses. Then it won't be so easy to forget.—Industrial News Review.

TIME FOR ACTION.

It's time we took taxation out of politics.

A national election is just over. It will be four more years before we stage the great quadrennial show again. But in the meantime, no matter who sits in the White House, no matter who are members of the House and Senate, taxes are going to hit us all.

Republicans pay taxes. Democrats pay taxes. So do Socialists and Communists. And no political party has a clear record on tax legislation.
Spokesmen for all parties have long promised tax reduction—and then, once they took office, proceeded to raise taxes. Members of all parties have done their part to fasten a leech-like bureaucracy upon us—and you can't have bureaucratic government and efficient, economical government at the same time.

During the campaign, we heard more promises of tax reduction from all political quarters. Now the time for conversation is past, and the time for action has arrived. Promises demand fulfillment—pledges cry out to be redeemed. Unless we are to be utterly crushed under a tax burden that is already sapping more than 20 percent of the national income, the American people must demand that statesmanship take the place of politics, and that a sincere effort to really reduce the cost of government be made.—Industrial News Review.

THERE IS A TIME—

—To yield—when you know you are wrong!

—To fight on—when you know your cause is just!

—To labor without ceasing—when a worthy objective is to be attained!

—To think carefully—before making a decision!

—To be brave—when you know there is danger!

—To be hopeful—when disaster has you down!

—To be humble—in the presence of opportunity!

FUTURE FARMERS NEWS

The members of the Future Farmers will again aid the Booster Club in making the November 11th Celebration a success.

The Chapter will have a large booth out at the Fair Grounds. This booth will contain the different crops grown in this section of the country. Also in one section of the booth a plot of ground terraced, showing how terracing improves the farm and the farm crops. This booth will be in the original poultry building.

A project show will also be held. This project show will consist of all the projects being fed by the members of the Vocational Agricultural class. There will be calves, hogs, brood sows, sheep, goats, and the Duroc-Jersey pig which the Chapter will raffie off. These projects will be shown in the stock barn just below the exhibit booth. At each project show there will be an indentification tag telling: Owner, weight, age, and the ration being fed, etc., of the animal.

As an entertainment the Chapter will hold a boxing contest, or tournament. There will be a main bout, heavy-weight bout, light-weight bout, and a bantam-weight bout, and other bouts. A four-person bout will also be held, by blind-folding four persons and then boxing. Another, putting two persons in a separate barrel and then boxing; another bout, putting toe sacks around four persons and letting them box, and still another bout letting one person wrestle and the other person box. There will be some wrestling matches held also.

In this manner the Future Farmers will assist the Booster Club in making the 11th a success.

Don't forget to buy tickets on the pig to be raffied off. The drawing for the pig will be held at the dance, the night of the 11th, and the owner of the ticket drawn need not be present to receive the pig.

GRADES TO GIVE OPERETTA.

The Grades are working on their Christmas program which is to be given in the H. H. S. auditorium on December 11th. Our feature will be an operetta given by the pupils from the third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades; the name, "The Poor Little Rich Girl". All of the speaking parts have been assigned and the singers are being selected this week. Jo Nell Gaines and Ruth Tucker will sing solo parts. In addition to this operetta, there will be two Christmas readings, one by Jim Amberson, a fourth grade pupil, and the other by Ima Jean Crow from the seventh grade. There will be a chorus to sing Christmas Carols, a group of dancers, and a Christmas drill.

SCREECH OWLS VS. DOBBERS.

The Hondo Screech Owls played the D'Hanis Dobbers a 14-14 tie Thursday on the D'Hanis field. The Screech Owls scored early in the first quarter after receiving the kick-off. After the recovery of a fumble, the Owls scored again in the closing minutes of the first quarter. Again in the last minute of the game the Owls advanced the ball to within one foot of the Dobbers' goal line, however, the Dobbers held them for downs. The D'Hanis club scored in the second and third periods.

The Dobbers will come here to play the Screech Owls a return game on Thursday, November 12. The admission will be free. Everyone be sure to come out to see the game.

CHORAL CLUB NEWS.

The Glee Club will sing at the November 11th celebration to be given at the Fair Grounds. The songs to be sung are "It's a Long Way to Tipperary", "Keep the Home Fires Burning", and "The Stars and Stripes Forever". These songs are supposed to bring back memories of the boys who fought for our country and add a patriotic touch to the occasion.

The Glee Club plans to give a radio program sometime before Christmas. Miss Spratt, our director, has written to find out what day will be convenient for both parties.

The group is working on several new numbers which are all beautiful.

Get all you can; save all you can; give all you can.—John Wesley.

SENIORS' RINGS HERE

What? The Senior rings! Have you seen them yet? If you really want to see a pretty specimen of jewelry, take a look at any one of them. They're all alike, only of different sizes and weights. The rings are gold and have rectangular faces. On the faces are raised silver plates, having an "H" on top and HONDO written below it. Every Senior is exceedingly proud of his ring. We are wondering whose will be the first to wander to other hands. James will probably be the first to part with his.

The rings arrived at the depot Wednesday after school and we got them Friday at noon. Fast work, don't you think? There were probably a few hard feelings among us before noon Friday, but after the rings were delivered everyone was too happy to hold a grudge against anyone for not bringing his money sooner.

OWLETS—FROM THE RECORDS—

A, A, A—D, D, D—or F, F, F. Which of these do you consistently make? Which do you want recorded on a permanent record to be kept and referred to for years to come. Recording grades for the older brothers and sisters of students now in school has, aside from the monotony of it, been interesting and revealing. What are your grades going to reveal about the work you are doing? An A, a D, or an F, is not necessarily an indication of mental capacity. It may be indicative of character, in exhibiting a determination to succeed and excel, a willingness to barely get by or a shiftiness, don't care attitude that brands you as irresponsible in the walks of life. You make the record, we record it, and there it stands!

OWLETS—HITHER AND THITHER.

Among the H. H. Owls Tie Del Rio Wildcats 7 to 7

In one of the most thrilling games of the season, the Owls fought the Del Rio Wildcats to a 7-7 tie Friday night at Cowboy Park in Del Rio, before the largest crowd of the year.

Del Rio kicked off to the Owls, Rothe returning it about fifteen yards. However, on the play a Del Rio player was off side and the ball was brought back and kicked over, this time from the Del Rio 35-yard stripe. Again the ball went to Rothe who returned it about twelve or fifteen yards. After gaining practically nothing on two attempts Hondo sent Danie back to punt on third down. He fumbled the ball but recovered it with a loss of about ten yards. On fourth down Windrow punted the ball to the Del Rio safety man on approximately the Del Rio thirty-five yard line. At this point the Wildcats began a sustained drive which, aided by two long passes, ended only when they crossed the Owls' goal line. A kick from placement was good for the extra point.

Amidst cheering of the Del Rio fans, the Wild Cats again kicked off to the Owls. This kick-off was returned about twenty yards. On the next play which was the most perfectly executed play anyone could wish to see, Capt. Rothe went off tackle for seventy-five yards and a touchdown while the Hondo fans went wild. On this play, which entirely fooled the entire Del Rio team, the ball was handed from one player to another in the Hondo backfield. While the Wildcats were following the Hondo player whom they thought had the ball around the end, Capt. Rothe dashed off tackle, and then outran the entire Del Rio team. A kick from placement was good for the extra point. The Owls then kicked off to the Wildcats. After gaining little in three downs Del Rio was forced to punt. The Owls retained possession of the ball for the remainder of the quarter and had it on approximately the Del Rio 30-yard line when the quarter ended. Score: Owls 7, Wildcats 7.

The Owls continued to drive toward the Del Rio goal line in the second quarter. After a series of gains by plays at the line and passes the Owls again crossed the Del Rio goal line. However, on the play Hondo was penalized 15 yards and the touchdown was thereby declared void. Much of this quarter was played in mid-field, although as the half ended the Wildcats were rapidly advancing the ball toward the Hondo goal line. Score: Hondo Owls, 7; Del Rio Wildcats, 7.

The Wildcats again kicked off to Hondo to start the second half. In the third quarter the teams played evenly, neither of them making a serious threat at the opponents' goal line, although at some time or other during this period each had possession of the ball in the opponent's territory. As the third quarter ended the score read: Owls 7, Wildcats 7.

The Wildcats opened the fourth and final quarter with a powerful drive down the field toward the Owls' goal line. After having a first down on the Owls' fifteen yard stripe, and gaining nothing on two incomplete passes (both of which were over the goal line) and a line play, the Wildcats tried a kick from placement for a field goal. However, the kick was wide, and Hondo took the ball on its own twenty yard line. After two unsuccessful line attempts Hondo punted to the 50-yard line where the ball touched a Del Rio player and Hondo covered it. In two plays the Owls made the necessary yardage for another first down. However, at this point the Del Rio line held and Danie punted out of bounds on the Wildcats' ten yard line. With their backs to the wall the Wildcats went into punt formation but instead a Del Rio player ran with the ball, gaining 15 yards. On the next play with a player back in passing position Bader broke through the Del Rio line and threw Del Rio for a fifteen yard loss. The Wildcats then punted but the kick was a very bad one, and the ball went out of bounds on their own twenty yard line. On three plays the Owls advanced the ball to the Wildcats' ten yard marker where they had a first down as the game ended. Final score: Hondo Owls 7, Del Rio Wildcats 7.

The entire Hondo team deserves a great deal of credit for the great brand of football they played. The linemen played better than at any previous time this season and the backfield also looked very good. Friday afternoon another District game took place in Sabinal where the Uvalde Coyotes met the Sabinal Yellowjackets. Uvalde finally nosed out the Jackets by a score of 7-0 in the last minute of play. However, Sabinal outplayed the Coyotes throughout the entire game and twice advanced the ball to the Uvalde one-foot line where the Coyotes held them for downs.

Next Friday afternoon Del Rio meets Uvalde in Uvalde. Should the Coyotes defeat or tie the Wildcats, then the Owls will be the champions of the northern half of this district, provided they defeat Sabinal on November 20th.

THE WAY OF SALVATION.

By Rev. J. T. Horger.

ARTICLE NO. 5.

Our last article discussed the subject of Repentance and we next take up the subject of seeking God in the salvation of the soul. Let it be understood that to seek the Lord is not to come AFTER repentance, but with, as part and parcel of repentance; namely, the later part of repentance, the turning to God. I want to say that this also is much neglected these days of shallow religious experience. In seeking salvation, we should use common sense and sane methods of pursuit, as we would search for any other desired treasure.

First, in turning away from sin, we should also turn away from evil company as much as is practical; especially when they are pursuing the wrong path or the wrong thing. St. Paul said, "Evil company corrupts good manners"—that is conduct of life.

Then he that would seek God, should read the Bible and also begin the prayer life. At least one should slip away, where no one but God can hear, and there tell God of their sins and shortcomings; and what your desire is; and your purpose and aim in life; namely, a life of righteousness in this world and a home in Heaven with Christ, and the Holy Angels, and all the redeemed of the earth. Then attend the prayer meetings, the Sunday School, and especially listen to the preached Word. And when you go, don't stop on a back seat where all the wicked and unspiritual generally stop, but go at least half way the church or nearer is better, where you can hear what the preacher has to say, and where the unbelief of a gainsaying crowd can't steal away the word before it finds lodgement in the soul. You don't know how much difference there is between the power of the spirit near the sacred stand and that on the back seats, until you are truly born of the Spirit. As a rule, when people take the back seats they have but little spiritual life, and want less, and are far from "hungering and thirsting after righteousness" of whom Jesus said, "They shall be filled".

But what do the Scriptures say about seeking God? And before going further, let me say that true Salvation is in-wrought by Jehovah, through Christ, by the Person of the Holy Ghost, as He wields an influence and power over the mind, heart and soul. Salvation is a state of righteousness wrought by the Spirit soul of the true seeker thereafter. But I had started to mention some Scripture on seeking the Lord. Deut. 4:29, "But if . . . thou shalt seek the Lord thy God, thou shalt find him, if thou seek him with all thy heart and with all thy soul." Note, that we are sure to find God, when we seek Him with ALL the heart. Ps. 69:32, "And your heart shall live that seek that seek God. Prov. 8:17, "I love seek me early shall find me." Again, the promise is sure, to those who seek EARLY. Isai. 55:6, "Seek the Lord while he may be found, call upon him while he is near." Here the prophet is exhorting to seek God while he may be found. Does there come a time when God can't be found? Oh, yes, that is possible. And we fear it occurs far more often than people usually suspect, for the reason that many leave off seeking God early in life and go on piling up sin upon sin, thus separating themselves farther and farther from God, while the soul has less and less desire for salvation; and they never try to seek God till death sweeps them into eternity.

The poet has said, "The aged sinner will not turn, his heart's so hard he cannot mourn."

But there is a possibility of so tramping upon God's love, mercy and grace that He withdraws His Spirit and man is forever doomed. Jer. 29:13, "And ye shall seek me, and find me, when ye shall SEARCH for me with all your heart." Whole-hearted seeking brings the reward. Amos 5:4, "Seek me and ye shall live." To find God through true repentance is life eternal. Math. 6:33, "But seek ye FIRST the Kingdom of God, and his righteousness." The only proper way to seek God is to include His righteousness. Math. 7:7, "Ask, and it shall be given; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you." Both the old and New Testaments abound in admonitions to seek God as the means and source of salvation, constantly assuring us that we shall find. Too many these days just decide to BE and to DO, and join the church, and never know what it is to be born of the Spirit and Jesus said ye MUST be born of the Spirit. John 3:5-16, I admit that to seek God until He is found in a conscious knowledge of sins forgiven and the inspiration of Divine life in the heart, and witnessed by the Holy Spirit, is not always an easy job; nor does it always come without the elapse of time. The church—the mother—is so lifeless, the conviction is so shallow, in some cases none at all, that neither the penitent, nor the pastor, nor the church, are willing to undergo the seeking, prayer and travail, necessary for their salvation; therefore, they join the church without salvation.

TECHMEN TRUE.

LAWRENCE MECHLER.

Bubbling over with enthusiasm and school spirit, Lawrence (referred to as "Little One" by The Technician staff) is typical of Techman True. A gay quip for everyone, he is admittedly the "pride and joy" of his teachers and friends alike.

As assistant-manager of the team and "head" water-boy, he does a great deal to help the morale of the Buffaloes. It is rumored that a campaign is under way to have him selected All-American Water-Boy.

Perhaps his proudest title is that of treasurer of the Junior Class. He held that same position last year in the Sophomore class where his diligent work won him recognition.

His favorite teachers are "Mama" Fox, Mr. Groos, and Mr. Franklin, under whom he takes T and I printing. Upon interrogation, he professed a liking for Mexican food, but proclaimed a dislike for Mexican "dishes" which he declared gave him indigestion.

The above is taken from The Technician, the school paper published by the journalism class of San Antonio Vocational and Technical School, where Lawrence is studying the printing business. He is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mechler of San Antonio.

After three years here during which time, both as pastor of the Methodist church and as a citizen, neighbor and friend, Rev. Shan M. Hull endeavored himself not only to his congregation but to a large circle of other friends, he and his estimable family left yesterday for El Campo to which station the Methodist conference transferred Rev. Hull. The rules of the Methodist church that pastors must change often affords them an opportunity to establish a wide and ever widening circle of friends and those they leave behind can only wish for them that their lives may fall in pleasant places at each recurring change.

Commissioners Court was in session Tuesday and went through the formality of counting the votes and recording the results of the November 3rd election. Only three changes in the personnel of the county officials will take place, namely: Arthur H. Rothe succeeds Judge R. J. Noonan as County Judge, the latter retiring after eleven consecutive terms to become District Attorney; and Ben Koch for Precinct No. 3 and H. J. Hardcastle for Precinct No. 4 will be new faces in Commissioners' Court, the former having defeated O. J. Tondre for re-election at D'Hanis and the latter at Devine succeeding J. W. Roberson who was not a candidate.

IN MEMORY OF ELMER HY. LOESSBERG.

Three-score and ten years they often count when they are taken out to their last resting place at Quihi, quite a number reach the fourscore and their going means sadness and heartach. How much more so, when death takes a deep dip in years and singles out a young life in the early twenties, while a grandmother sits weeping at almost ninety-five, a young life that barely had taken a good hold of the sturdy activity in this world, a young life that had barely mapped out his future, a life that was nipped in the first conscious bloom, fast, sudden, unexpected, much too soon in our way of measuring and calculating, but in keeping with the will of Him that maketh all things well. His holy name be praised even in tears and deep sorrow. Today we lament the death of—

Elmer Henry Loessberg, the son of Mr. Henry J. Loessberg and wife, Pauline, nee Lindeburg. He was born at Quihi on November 28, 1912, brought to the Lord in holy baptism on March 23rd, 1913, renewed his baptismal vows after careful instruction under Rev. C. P. Hasskarl, on September 12, 1926.

The greater part of his life was spent at home or near home, till, but a few weeks ago, he had assumed a position with the Schweers trucking concern, when his fatal sickness made an abrupt end of his activity.

He was a likeable young man, modest, simple, minding his business and his ways, yet ever active and ready to lend a helping hand where his services were desired, and, in general, unhampered by weakness or disease; on the go with full force at home and away from home.

He attended the worship at the Lutheran church, was a member of the Luther League, and never failed us when called upon, and he seemed to steer clear of the vagaries and follies of this world, with a fair sense of responsibility.

About a year ago occasional ailments showed up, seemingly not of a serious nature, and they disappeared when home remedies were applied or medical help was resorted to. No one anticipated anything dangerous.

that might be in the offing. However, some five weeks ago his condition gave rise to fear and apprehension, and three weeks ago he was rushed to the Santa Rosa hospital at San Antonio. An operation gave temporary relief, but the real seat of his malady seemed untouched and matters went from bad to worse, in spite of the best medical attention and efficient care.

He lingered on with brave courage, some of the home folks, especially his good mother, steadily at his bedside and many friends and relatives dropping in. He was grateful for their thoughtfulness, as he was for the ministrations of his pastor, listening with attentive ear and willing heart to the word of God and prayer.

Yesterday, the 5th of November, a final exploration and analysis of his case was to be made by a specialist, assisted by able associates and attended by a half dozen men of the medical profession, for his case was unusual and baffling. The diagnosis was not favorable. During a short recess we directed his thoughts with greater intensity to his Saviour and Redeemer, and how gladly he thanked for the comfort and cheer. Another operation in the afternoon seemed advisable. He did not survive it, dying on the operating table about 2:30 o'clock that afternoon, at an age of 23 years, 11 months, 8 days.

His untimely parting is lamented by his parents, his sister, Annie (Mrs. Clarence Dailey), a brother, Arnold, and another sister, Miss Edna Loessberg, also by both grandmothers, Mrs. Julia Loessberg, nearly 95 years of age, and Mrs. Anna Lindeburg, and many other relatives and friends from far and near. Lord, comfort thy people!

Funeral services were held at the home on November the 6th at 3 P. M. with interment at the new Quihi cemetery, the flowers and the large following attesting deep sympathy.

Pallbearers were: Edwin Loessberg, Clarence Loessberg, Ray Mussman, Frank Schulte, Alvin Britsch, and Milton Loessberg.

HOW TO COOK a Turkey

● Give your family and guests roast turkey as it should be by roasting it in the moist even heat of a Hotpoint Electric Oven.

See how easy it is: Prepare turkey with salt and butter, place in shallow oblong pan (not a covered roaster—moist, even electric heat does away with the need for clumsy utensils). Place roast in oven, turn switch to "Bake"; set temperature to 275°-325°; Time 25-30 minutes per pound. And believe it or not, that's all there is to it—no basting, no turning, no watching. The turkey will have a crackly, glistening brown skin and the meat will have a luscious juiciness that only electric roasting can give.

God, I am just a poor defenceless woman kneeling before you in suppliant prayer. I am bewildered, since the heart of every man is reaching out in greed, grasping where are shining helmets waiting.

When a hungry man's in a hurry

At five o'clock, Jonathan Beggs slams his ledgers, tosses his eyeshade aside, and turns to his telephone . . .

"Give me 9-8-3-7, Operator, and make it snappy," says he. "...That you, Em? ... I'm leavin' . . . and say, what's on the stove for dinner? . . ."

When a hungry man's in a hurry, he wants nothing to stand in his way. So it is up to the people who furnish the telephone service to see that Jonathan Beggs' calls are fast, and clear, and satisfactory in every particular.

It is fortunate that these people have at their elbows the entire specialized organization of the Bell System: the expert help of American Telephone and Telegraph Company's headquarters staff . . . the researches and inventions of Bell Laboratories . . . the economies and telephone efficiencies which result from the skillful manufacturing of Western Electric.

Homeward bound in the early dusk, Jonathan Beggs may never give these organizations a thought. Yet he benefits from their work. For many years they have helped this company give better and more far reaching telephone service, at prices that are reasonable to telephone users everywhere. Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Trade Balance for Nine Months Is Unfavorable—Mrs. "Wally" Simpson Gets Divorce—Goering Launches Nazi Economic Plan.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD © Western Newspaper Union.

EXPORTS of manufactured goods and raw materials exceeded imports into the United States during September by more than four million dollars, according to a report released by Secretary of Commerce Roper. But the flow the other way was so strong during the previous three months that the country suffered an unfavorable balance of trade during the first nine months of the year amounting to $33,136,000. This is in contrast with a favorable balance of $66,496,000 in the corresponding period of 1935.

Roper minimized the situation, declaring that heavy exports of raw cotton, tobacco and automobiles would probably bring the trade balance more into line with previous years. Pressed for further explanation Roper insisted that "our government as such does not compete with other governments in the selling of goods," and this was the province of private business. On reciprocal trade agreements he was mum.

"We'd like to end the year with a favorable trade balance, naturally," he said, "but we are going through a period of study and readjustment in world trade."

In fact, Roper found the increase in import trade to be "encouraging." He said that it showed our industries were buying raw materials abroad for expansion of their production in this country. Heavy increases in wheat and meats resulted from the drought, according to Roper, rather than from the killing of six million pigs and non-raising of grain under the AAA.

UNCLE SAM'S nephews and nieces now number 128,429,000, according to the estimate of Director William L. Austin of the bureau of census. The new figure, as of July 1, represented an increase of 908,000, or 0.71 per cent, since July 1, 1935. It was based on the number of births and deaths during the year ending June 30, 1936, and the excess of immigration over emigration.

Births exceeded deaths by 899,956 and the net immigration was 8,044, according to the data taken by Austin. The population figure on the basis of the 1930 census was 122,775,046, and the biggest annual increase since then was 1,022,000, for the year ending July 1, 1931.

The bureau of agricultural economics also has been doing some population estimating. It says the back to the farm movement of the depression years has halted and that the farm population remained practically stationary during 1935, being 31,809,000 at the end of that year. This figure, the bureau says, was only slightly greater than in 1920 and "somewhat less" than in 1910.

PROCEEDINGS lasting nineteen minutes in the court of assizes at Ipswich, England, sufficed to give marital freedom to Mrs. "Wally" Simpson.

Justice Sir Anthony Hawke heard neatly arranged evidence of the infidelity of Ernest Simpson, who was not represented, and gruffly gave a decree nisi to the attractive American woman who has been and is the close friend of King Edward VIII. For six months she will be on probation, technically chaperoned at all times, and if her behavior satisfies the king's proctor she will be unqualifiedly free April 27 to marry again. Whether or not her new husband, if she takes one, will be King Edward is a question that only time and the two persons most directly concerned can determine.

Mrs. Simpson returned from Ipswich to her London residence on Cumberland terrace, Regents park, and there told interviewers that she was angered and humiliated by the international sensation her divorce had caused. She said she might go abroad for a time but that she would never return to the United States because of "all the nasty things" said of her here.

The Week, a radical London weekly, was the first English newspaper to carry an open reference to Mrs. Simpson's friendship with King Edward. The article was at the same time a denunciation of the American press for giving the story such prominence and of the British press for suppressing it entirely. It also made it clear that there would be widespread opposition to a marriage between Edward and "Wally." Papers from Paris and elsewhere outside the United Kingdom have been in great demand in London, but of course the vast majority of the English people know nothing about the affair.

PURSED to quick action by the new accord between Germany and Italy, Leon Blum's popular front cabinet approved a large increase in France's military air force, already reputed to be one of the most powerful in the world. To modernize and build up the aerial squadrons the government will spend $230,000,000 at once. It was reported, too, that the cabinet decided to ask parliament to vote extraordinary funds for the fortification of the northern frontier because of Belgium's reversion to a policy of armed neutrality.

BENITO MUSSOLINI rattled his sword again on the occasion of the fourteenth anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome. "The Italian people," he proclaimed, "today are ready and determined to defend as never before—with all their force right up to the last drop of blood—victory and empire."

As for Fascism, he said, "When it finds obstacles in its path, it throws itself against them and burns its bridges behind it."

NOT to be outdone in martial gestures by other nations, Japan trotted out her entire navy for review by Emperor Hirohito. It was the greatest fleet ever brought together in Asiatic waters, comprising 108 warships aggregating nearly 700,000 tons and manned by 40,000 men. Large numbers of aircraft also took part in the evolution in Osaka bay.

GEN. HERMANN WILHELM GOERING, German minister of air and now the director of the Nazi four-year economic scheme to make the reich independent of the rest of the world in raw materials, launched his program at a great Nazi rally in Berlin. "We shall hack finger after finger off the foreign hand clutching at Germany's throat within the next four years," he declared.

Outlining his plans, Goering said no German had starved, nor would starve. The high seas fishing fleet will be increased, he asserted, so the people can eat fish when meat is not available. Whale fishing will be developed for the margarine it can produce, he promised.

Goering urged all Germans to follow the example of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler who, he said, eats neither meat nor butter. The audience yelled with delight when the robust Goering told them he had lost 22 pounds by eating less butter.

Germany would prefer the old system of international exchange of wares, but this now is impossible in a mad world, so Germany will build her factories, produce her own synthetic rubber and her own substitutes for cotton and other materials for which she now must spend millions of dollars yearly, the general declared.

MANY American travelers join the English in mourning the death of Sir Edgar Britten, commander of the great liner Queen Mary and commodore of the Cunard-White Star lines. He was stricken with paralysis in Southampton and died within a few hours. Sir Edgar was sixty-two years old and first went to sea as a lad of eighteen in sailing ships. He was knighted by King George V in 1934.

EIGHT armored cars escorted by armed private guards and state police, carried a fortune of $25,000,000 from the estate of the late Col. E. H. R. Green in South Dartmouth, Mass., to the First National bank of Boston.

The fortune, which consists of the famous coin collection, valued at 5 millions; the stamp collection, valued at 3½ millions; a large amount of cash and securities, and a quantity of uncut diamonds, has been under constant guard at the Green home since his death.

BEFORE taking a recess of two weeks the United States Supreme court announced that it would review and hand down a decision at this term upon the Wagner labor relations act. Many lawyers believe this law will be held unconstitutional, for in the Guffey coal act decision the Supreme court held that the relationship between employers and employees was local and beyond the power of congressional regulation.

SECRETARY OF LABOR FRANCES PERKINS announced that the third national conference on labor legislation, designed to stimulate the raising of work standards through federal and state co-operative efforts, will be called into session in Washington on November 9, and will last three days.

JUST about everything necessary to a general European war is now ready. At this distance it seems that Josef Stalin, dictator of Soviet Russia, will be the man to fire the starting pistol; and he is reported to be convinced that another great conflict is unavoidable. The nations of the continent are lining up as Communist or Fascist, either in the constitution of their governments or in their active sympathies. The immediate occasion for their disputes is the civil war in Spain. Nearly all the continental governments and that of Great Britain joined in an agreement of nonintervention, but that pact is about played out. Russia, accusing Portugal, Germany and Italy of aiding the Fascist Spanish rebels, has denounced the agreement and declared she reserves freedom to help the Madrid government; the accused nations deny the Soviet charges, and the nonintervention committee voted that Italy and Portugal were not guilty, the accusations either not being proved or referring to what happened before the international agreement went into effect. Italian counter-charges, detailing 20 alleged acts of Russian aid to Spanish Socialists were laid before the committee for action.

Portugal severed diplomatic relations with the Madrid government, and the representatives of the two countries were recalled. Dr. Armando Monteiro, Portuguese foreign minister, followed up this action by sending to Lord Plymouth, British chairman of the nonintervention committee, a long document accusing Russia of having planned and brought about the Spanish civil war. He named the Russian diplomats, agitators and soldiers who, he charged, were directing the operations. He alleged that Moscow sought to start a revolution in Portugal and thus provide a base for attacking General Franco's insurgent forces in the rear.

Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy have buried their differences for the time being and reached an agreement on a united policy. This was outlined in a communique published after Italian Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano had conferred with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler. In the first place Hitler and Mussolini inform the world that they intend to recognize the insurgent government headed by General Franco as the legitimate regime in Spain, but they promise to respect the terms of the nonintervention agreement.

Other important declarations of policy by the two states are:

1. Co-operation to protect the peace of Europe and "the holy riches of European civilization" and family life.
2. Endorsement of a conference to rewrite the Locarno pact guaranteeing European borders, but only in the west. This implied that neither would agree to Soviet Russia's presence at the meeting.
3. Co-operation for the rehabilitation of the Danubian countries.

In one clause of the agreement Germany recognizes Italy's sovereignty over Ethiopia.

POPULAIRE, the organ of Premier Leon Blum's Socialist party, alleges that a shipment of submarine guns from the United States has been added to the secret armaments of the Croux de Feu in preparation for a civil war in France. The Croix de Feu, a Fascist organization headed by Col. Francois de la Rocque, was dissolved recently by the government and was succeeded by the new Social party.

Populaire, referring to the submarine guns, said these "terrible weapons used by American gangsters" arrived from America through the port of Havre and through Holland. The paper added that the weapons are being planted in caches in Normandie and elsewhere in the north of France. Furthermore, according to Populaire, great quantities of tear gas bombs and tear gas pistols are arriving from Germany for the use of the Fascists.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI, talking at Bologna, said that Italy's "olive branch grows out of an immense forest of 8,000,000 bayonets"; and next day at Imola he told 70,000 listeners that he hoped for long periods of peace, but not for "eternal peace, which is absurd and impossible."

"The Italian people, which gave its blood for the empire, is ready for any other trial when the crucial hour approaches," the Fascist chief shouted. "In order to make peace—just as to make love—it is necessary that there be two."

BELGIAN Fascists, known as Rexists and led by Leon Degrelle, clashed with the police in Brussels and Degrelle was jailed for a night. He said the motive of his demonstration was to show that ex-soldiers were backing the Rexists, and he announced that he would carry out his threatened "march on Brussels" with 150,000 followers and overthrow the government.

SETTING a new world's long distance train speed record, the Burlington railway's streamlined steel Denver Zephyr made a non-stop run from Chicago to Denver in 12 hours 12 minutes and 27 seconds. The distance is 1,017 miles, so the average speed was 83.4 miles an hour. After crossing the Colorado border the train hit its top speed of 116 miles an hour, which was maintained for one mile.

Washington—I have been wondering whether the rank and file of the American citizens have been able to piece together the many loose ends of the distressing conditions extant throughout the world. It is to be recognized, of course, that when a man like Dictator Stalin of Russia makes a statement that war in Europe is just ahead, it awakens the peoples of the world with a sudden start. That is the spectacular side. But there is much more about European political conditions than is disclosed in the Stalin declaration.

The thing that students and observers of European affairs can see in conditions abroad, as they view them in the light of our own State Department's information, is that a gigantic battle is on between two schools of thought. On the one hand is communism. On the other hand, and just as firmly entrenched and as deeply determined, is fascism. Followers of these two lines of thought are both literally and figuratively at each other's throat, and the picture when pieced together, can lead to no other conclusion than that which Stalin foresees, namely, war.

I have lately heard some observers make the statement that the Spanish rebellion is the crux of the problem. I cannot agree with that. Spain and her revolution may prove to be the spark that ignites the European powder keg, but Spain and her revolution are just incidents in the developments that came originally from the overthrow of the Czar's government in Russia and the establishment for the first time of a commune of the proletariat in the world.

It was unfortunate for the world and for those people who wanted to promote peace at all times that the Versailles treaty had to take shape as it did. The Versailles treaty subjugated Germany beyond all reason. I think that will be accepted by all save the most violent partisans of the late President Wilson. It seems to me, however, that the Versailles treaty has proved to be the second stage in the chain of circumstances that led to Mussolini in Italy, Hitler in Germany, overthrow of the royalists in Spain, and lately the election of a "people's front" in France.

Any analysis of that chain of circumstances cannot fail to include the effect the Versailles treaty had upon European conditions. In some ways, the effect was direct; in others, it was indirect, and the full import of the treaty provisions were not evident until eight or ten or even twelve years after the four great powers had made that treaty effective and, they believed, effectually disarmed and bottled up Germany.

After many conversations with diplomats, foreign students and Washington government officials, I believe too much importance cannot be attached to the attempt made by the Versailles treaty to break up political jurisdictions. The treaty, it will be remembered, created a vast number of insignificant and rather helpless states in Europe. They were supposed to serve as a buffer between the larger nations and prevent snarling and mauling faces among those world powers that had engaged in the last war. The effect, it has now been proved, is exactly the opposite.

Throughout Europe, according to the official and unofficial word that I get, there is a new kind of hatred among nations. It is not the hatred that obtained between France and Germany under Kaiser Wilhelm. It is a hatred not between the statesmen of the various countries, but among the rank and file of the people. That is to say, it is a vengeful feeling and when that is understood, it is not difficult to realize how vicious the undercurrent of relations is from Russia on the north to the Straits of Gibraltar, or even into Africa on the south.

To bring this condition into today's light, one hardly need look further than the various cabled dispatches from European capitals, each telling a story how the respective governments are watching the Spanish revolution. Again, the Russian Stalin puts the thing into a spectacular relief. If reports can be accredited, and official information indicates that they can be regarded as having a basis of fact, Stalin is ready to lend assistance to the so-called loyalist armies in Spain.

Now the loyalist armies, representing the government that is barely holding on by the skin of its teeth, are wholly communistic. Hence, Stalin's interest.

But the Russian dictator might be regarded as horning into a mess that does not concern his nation, except for another and most important piece of information. That information, not officially confirmed but generally believed, is to the effect that Italy's Mussolini has a finger in the pie on the fascist side of the Spanish revolution. The rebel armies in Spain are fascists. Hence it is quite understandable how the Italian dictator may be mixed up in promoting, even extending military assistance, to the rebel Spaniards. Thus we have definitely a triangle that surrounds the peoples of Europe. Within the boundaries of that triangle are jealousies unparalleled, political propaganda of a sort never before unleashed on the world, and millions upon millions of people who may be classed as unthinking. They are of a type comparable to the lowest grade of American individuals who, while not wholly illiterate, cannot be accredited with the power to reason. They are being led into the very jaws of another war by wholly unscrupulous and unprincipled agitators who are posing as the friend of the common man. They are working on fertile ground.

Repeatedly, I hear questions asked concerning whether the United States is likely to get involved in that bottomless pit of Europe and, a kindred question, whether communism and fascism are gaining in the United States. The answer to the first half of that question must be made in two ways. We are likely to get involved unless some of our government policies are changed. But we can stay out if those policies do undergo revision. Whether we find ourselves embroiled in that horrible mess, depends entirely on the Washington government and the attitude of the Washington government appears entirely upon the attitude of the American people.

And that statement brings me to the most important observation that I have to make in connection with this discussion. It is now a definite fact that communists are spreading their propaganda through the United States in an effort to create a war spirit. It is the beginning of their movement to drag us into another world war and if we get in, it means the end of the American nation, as the land of freedom for us all. Our economic structure, as well as our government, will be destroyed. I have no hesitancy in making such a statement.

After the World war it took us twenty years to recognize what the cost of that war was. I mean the cost of disturbed lives more than I refer to money cost. The depression resulted from that war just as surely as the sun shines, and we are all now getting well fed up with this depression. And so I say on the basis of conclusions given me from countless authoritative sources, we cannot stand another war of the proportions of the World war and retain our government in its present form, our traditions, our institutions. There will be no preventing such a breakdown.

As I have said in these columns before, one particular criticism that I have against the Roosevelt administration is its capitulation to Russia. Frankly, I believe Mr. Roosevelt was trapped. I believe he saw too late what the full meaning of his action was when he recognized Russia—that is, recognized his mistake too late unless he believes in the doctrine of the communists. In any event, it is my firm conviction that the recognition of the Soviet opened the door through which now are marching hordes of men and women squint-eyed, unprincipled in character, unpronounceable names, ruthless in design. They are bringing the propaganda which I mentioned. This is not intended to be a scare story. The evidence of communistic propaganda probably is all about you in your own communities. It is subtle, cleverly handled. Sometimes, it is even very boldly done. For example, in many of the larger cities today, handbills in appearance like those that are used announcing a public sale, are finding their way into the playgrounds of public schools. Allegedly brilliant lecturers are going about the country making what appear to be educational addresses, but containing, in many instances, propaganda argument in support of the communistic theory.

There are many other types of this propaganda under way. Professor Rexford Guy Tugwell published a text book on government a few years ago and he has succeeded in getting that volume into the special list of books for Delaware schools. It contains declarations definitely opposed to the American form of government. It is unnecessary to point out more of these things. The point is quite definite and clear. The movement toward communism in this country is proceeding slowly, cautiously, because the communistic leaders recognize American sentiment must be changed slowly, but the slimy head of the snake is coming out of the water and it will be much bolder if we become involved in the European struggle. Communists would make of us American citizens each and every one a communist and would throw us into the world struggle on the side of communism and against fascism.

REPEATEDLY, I hear questions asked concerning whether the United States is likely to get involved in that bottomless pit of Europe and, a kindred question, whether communism and fascism are gaining in the United States. The answer to the first half of that question must be made in two ways. We are likely to get involved unless some of our government policies are changed. But we can stay out if those policies do undergo revision. Whether we find ourselves embroiled in that horrible mess, depends entirely on the Washington government and the attitude of the Washington government appears entirely upon the attitude of the American people.

It is now a definite fact that communists are spreading their propaganda through the United States in an effort to create a war spirit. It is the beginning of their movement to drag us into another world war and if we get in, it means the end of the American nation, as the land of freedom for us all. called Bryn. But I don't mind using
it. As a matter of fact . . . 'Bryn, Bryn,' she repeated. 'You know, my boy, it suits you, somehow. 'Stuart' doesn't. I always felt queer saying it.
'Bryn.'"

"Thank you, Grandmother. You know how it is. When you aren't accustomed to a name . . ."

He opened the door wider, and waited. She gave a little fluttering breath and emerged slowly from her long retreat. She stepped out into the world with a hesitating air; but as she took the arm he offered and crossed the curb, she drew herself up slightly, and became once more the shadow of an assured woman of the world.

Both together they saw the hat in the window. It was a small window, glitteringly clean, and the hat hung inside the window. It was a small window, of a tiny millinery shop at the end of the street.

On a pedestal in the center was one hat, a molded toque of gray velvet the exact shade of Grandmother's hair.
Bryn felt her hand move on his arm.
He looked at the hat, and then down at her face. He turned, slowly, without a word, and they went into the little shop.

"The hat in the window, please," he said. The girl put the soft gray toque on the silvered hair. Grandmother, startled, looked at herself in the glass, and then turned to Bryn. Her eyes were deep blue and shining; her cheeks were pink.

"We will take it," he told the girl, and handed her a bill.

"And now," he said happily, "now let's go shopping."

Grandmother was a little intoxicated. She made no protests whatever.
She clung tightly to his arm and followed where he led, and Bryn enjoyed himself thoroughly. He bought her a long soft gray woollen coat. He took her to a florist's and bought her a bunch of purple, scented violets to pin on the new coat. He bought her five pairs of gray gloves and a gray suede purse to match. Grandmother, by the time they were through, was twenty years younger, and the pain in her heart had entirely disappeared.

They proceeded down the street toward the car. "I've got one or two more things to buy," he decided, and went into a confectioner's. Grandmother accompanied him and stood waiting.

"I want," he told the proprietor, "a very nice box of chocolates and a pound of your best tobacco and a good pipe."

The proprietor knew what was meant. The articles were selected and paid for. He placed Grandmother carefully in the seat and got in himself.

On the sidewalk in front of the car a small boy in clean faded blue overalls came slowly along with a very small dog on the end of a leash. The dog shone like silk in the late afternoon sun. It sniffed the sidewalk happily.

The boy's eye caught Bryn. He called out. "You don't want to buy a good dog, do you, mister? This here one's for sale. Two dollars."

"What is it, a cocker spaniel?" Bryn inquired, regarding the floppy ears, the water-waved coat, the thumping tail.

"Yessir, a real cocker. Ain't that a pretty color?"

"What's the matter with it?"

"Well," the boy told him, dropping his voice, "it's a lady dog. And, confidentially, 'you know what they're like.'"

"Oh, a lady dog. What's her name?"

"Garbo." The boy grinned. "Just take a look at her." He made a little clucking noise with his tongue. Instantly the dog sat up, paws crossed limply before her, mouth closed, silky ears drooping, her eyes sad and mournful and pleading. Bryn looked. He began to laugh, silently.

"Well," Bryn decided, "she's sold.
Here's your money."

CHAPTER V

Bryn, on the morning after his trip to town with Grandmother, paused in his systematic and careful examination of the grounds, leaned against a tree down at the lower corner, lit a cigarette, and considered.

The men who were coming out from town to make a garden out of this wilderness would have to work carefully.
All through the thick grass were scattered rare shrubs, beds of flowering plants, plots of hyacinth and crocus bulbs, crescents of iris set into the corners.

But his main consideration was not directed toward the garden. He was remembering Deborah's face when they had returned yesterday, he and Grandmother. White and cold, she had met them in the doorway and led Grandmother into the small sitting room to rest for a moment before removing her new coat and hat. Deborah was no longer angry. While they were away she had obviously come to some agreement with herself; Bryn decided, as she smiled faintly and took the box of chocolates, as she put it down without a glance upon the small table beside her, that he preferred her angry. He had swung on his heel, leaving her there with Grandmother, and gone out to Gary. Gary stood in the drive, his parcel laid on the grass, watching the puppy rolling over and over, wild with excitement, and yelping with joy at her release from the car.

"Perhaps you'll tell Miss Deborah that the puppy is for her," Bryn said curtly, and went back up to his room.

But the puppy wasn't having any difficulty in penetrating these frosty layers and discovering the real Deborah.
From his window yesterday afternoon Bryn had witnessed their first meeting. Deborah had come out to Gary, and at her appearance the puppy had rushed upon her with a ferocious threatening growl which ended precipi-tately as the little dog fell over her own feet and tumbled in a heap before

Deborah's. Instantly, unquestioning as a child, she had bent to lift it in her arms. "Oh, Gary," she cried, "isn't it a darling? Isn't it a darling puppy?"

She hugged it close, and it snuggled for a moment comfortably under her chin. Then it put out a pink tongue and kissed Deborah entirely without reserve.

"You're a bad dog," she scolded, but her voice was soft and laughing and tender. Bryn drew a deep breath.
When she spoke to him her voice wasn't like that. "Where did it come from, Gary?"

"She's for you, Miss Deborah. Mr.
Bryn brought her out from town."

"Oh," Deborah said. "Of course. I might have known." But she did not drop the puppy. She stood silent, thinking.

"Now look, Miss Deborah," Gary began, "I don't think he means any harm, after all. He's only acting natural."

"Oh, hush!" Deborah cried stormily, stamping her foot. She held the puppy close and ran off with her, back of the house, down to some hidden nook of her own which always seemed to be her chosen place of refuge.

That had been yesterday.

Bryn went down and got into the car, standing on the drive. He drew from his pocket the worn piece of paper which . . . was it only yesterday morning? . . . had caused Deborah such woe.

His eyes traveled down the list on the paper in his hand. Magazines, catalogues, tea, servants. Gardeners, yes.
The bank manager was sending them out as soon as he could find them.

Gary came out to him.

"I must say," he said to Bryn, "you got a way of getting things done. And . . . I'd like to thank you for that tobacco, sir."

"I suppose the electric light situation is next," Bryn said, unheeding.

"Well, I think I can fix that myself.
Several years of engineering ought to prove of some value. Lead on, Gary."

In the small square house where the dynamo stood greasy and unresponsive, Bryn detached a pair of overalls from a peg on the wall and climbed into them. "Now," he said, when Gary had given him the pathological history of the electric plant, "if you'll go and prepare a large and delectable dinner, and leave me alone in my glory, I'll see what's to be done, Gary."

There was, as Bryn had suspected, nothing seriously wrong with the engine of the electric plant. He opened the cocks to drain out all the old oil, cleaned the connections, and made a note of the few parts it would be necessary to replace. Before the motor was started, he decided, it would be wise to inspect the connections at the house. He removed the greasy overalls, hung them on the peg.

He went to the kitchen and got a drink. Gary was shelling peas. All morning, as Bryn knew, he and Deborah had spent making strawberry jam; and now every window-sill was filled with small ruby jars which caught and held the sunlight.

"Where's there a ladder?" he asked.

"Out on the edge of the orchard," Gary told him. "But you better be careful of it. It isn't as good as it might be."

Bryn went out behind the house and followed with his eye the line of the electric wires as they crossed the trees and the brook. He went out to the orchard, lifted the ladder lying half-hidden in the grass, carried it back and propped it up against the wall of the house, beneath the place where the wires entered. Trying each rung cautiously, he went up the ladder.

A NOVEL BIRTHDAY PARTY.

By Juliette Frazier.

A clever young hostess who wished to entertain a few friends on her birthday, a date most of them had forgotten, if they ever knew of it, planned three tables of bridge. And during the course of the afternoon she introduced a few original ideas, to cause unexpected fun and give the occasion a real birthday aspect.

She made the tally-cards herself, using them as place-cards. As each bore the date of the month, not the year, of her guest's own birthdays, the finding of their allotted places at the tables was accompanied by much merriment. Crude pen-and-ink sketches were made on them of the proverbial "stork" carrying a baby.

At refreshment-time blue and pink baby bibs from the "fifteen cent store" were bestowed on each guest.
All of them had "Good girl", "Good boy" or "Baby" printed on them.
This added much to the fun. Refreshments allaying all suspicion of any premeditated surprise in the way of a birthday cake consisted of hot chocolate with whipped cream and nut bread sandwiches.

When the guests had about decided it was time to go, the hostess left the room, returning with what appeared to be a large cake covered with a tea napkin, from under which hung long baby ribbons of every color.
She placed this mystery in the center of a card table, spread out the ribbons, as her guests gathered around. Her "birthday" cake was a true one—a rich devil's food cake, cut in proper sizes for each guest to take a sample home. They were done up in white cellophane and each knotted with a little trinket on top, leaving a yard length of baby ribbon hanging. Upon a large dinner plate with a cup in the center, each piece of cake was laid on its side, wheel fashion, around the cup. Then covered with a napkin, it looked exactly like a cake.

The trinkets tied to each piece betokened the probable fate of each guest. A little blue stocking for the aspirant to a literary career, a tiny tin horse for the girl who would have hobbies, but no "hubby", tiny twin dolls for the prospective mother, a ship for a love-ship, etc., and of course a wedding ring, a thimble and a coin.

There was high excitement when the guests chose their ribbons and all pulled at once. The hostess waited until all the rest had picked their ribbon before taking the one that was left. Such a babel of voices and laughter. Fortunately she had forestalled the clamor for interpretation by printing on the outside of the cake paper the meaning of each symbol.

As they were about to go, each guest was presented with her bib, as a souvenir of the occasion.

HEART-NEED.

O, for the shooting peace of purpling hills
When mellow moon lets fall a silver spray
And bathes away the carking cares of day;
When silence drops a golden veil and stills
The din save for the call of whip-poorwills,
The whispering trees, as zephyrs softly sway,
And crystal brooks in rippling roundelay
That stirs my heart to kindred ecstasy.

O, cruel stroke of fate, to cast my life Adrift upon the restless speeding tide
Of city paths, where waves of selfish strife
Engulf; where peace and silence are denied.
Eternally my heart—my weary heart Cries out for peace—that peace the hills impart.
—SARAH MIZELLE MORGAN.

SANDWICHES FOR TEA.

By Mary Ballew.

Drain all the juice from canned tomatoes or stewed fresh tomatoes and mix the pulp with an equal quantity of grated cheese, adding a teaspoon of your favorite sauce and one-half teaspoon salt for each cup of the mixture. Spread between buttered slices of white or whole wheat or rye bread. Or scoop out the centers of split finger rolls and fill with the tomato and cheese paste.

Mr. Harry Ticken, Pleasanton, Atascosa county, has a very good demonstration in legume inoculation for both black-eyed peas and peanuts.
The peas show a marked difference in vine growth and nodules on the root system. Peanuts are not far enough along to notice any difference. Ticken is keeping a record of the harvest of both inoculated and uninoculated peas and plans on doing the same on his peanuts.

A delicious salad course was served to the following: Mesdames Ben Koch, Herman Ney, John Zinsmeyer, E. A. Rothe, Hy. Biry, John Rieber, A. J. Finger, Ferd. Koch, Arnold Zerr, M. A. Zinsmeyer, Louis Carle, Jr., Chas. Langfeld, Rely Carle and Misses Carrie Langfeld, Tina Rothe, Cornelia Koch and Ursie Lee Rock.

SECO COMMUNITY P. T. A.

The members of the Seco Community P. T. A. enjoyed a delightful program which was presented by the pupils of the school last Friday night, Nov. 6, during the regular monthly meeting of the club. The opening number consisted of two English folk games rendered by the primary pupils and this was followed by a group of recitations by the first grade. The intermediate and high school students sang a number of cowboy songs.

Miss Josie Rothe presided at the business meeting which followed the program. Mr. Louis Pichot, membership chairman, reported 32 members. Subjects of discussion included the newly organized 4-H Club and the possibilities of a Home Demonstration class for the women of the community. The hostesses, Mesdames Geo. Bendele and Ed. Weynand, served delicious cookies and coffee.

SECO 4-H CLUB.

The 4-H Club of Seco School was organized by Miss Irene Hawkins Thursday morning, November 5, 1936, at the schoolhouse. Eight girls had previously sent in registration cards. The four H's mean heart, hand, head, and health.

Miss Josie Rothe presided at the election of officers, who were chosen as follows: President, Lucille Pichot; vice-president, Lillian Rudinger; secretary-treasurer, Melverda Poerner; reporter, Gertrude Weynand; sponsor, Miss Josie Rothe. The other members are Hettie Rudinger, Mary Ann Lutz, Catherine and Marie Weynand.

After the election of officers Miss Hawkins talked to the members

RESETTLEMENT ADMINISTRATION.

Dallas, Nov. 9th.—Set up to save the forgotten farmer, the Resettlement Administration has also helped to save many small-town business men of Texas and Oklahoma who were on the verge of being carried down along with their destitute customers.

D. P. Trent, Regional Director of the Resettlement Administration, today made public a large number of letters from merchants and bankers in small towns telling of business restoration as a result of this agency's operations.

Gibbons Poteet, Vice-President of the First National Bank at Roston, Texas, wrote: "This time last year there was neither money nor credit in our community. It was plain that if our people could not get outside credit hundreds of our good farmers would have to turn over their tools to the bank and go to town and get on the relief rolls." His bank gave working space to the Resettlement supervisors. Mr. Poteet said, "On many days there were as many as thirty to forty men and women in the bank making their applications for Resettlement loans. Then in the fall our bank sent each of these joint clients a letter calling attention to the fact that he owed both the government and the bank, that his first cotton should be turned over to the government until the loan from Resettlement was paid and then he was to deliver it to the bank. Many of our customers have paid their Resettlement loans and made substantial reductions on their bank loans."

Speaking from "thirty years of banking experience", Albert Taylor, Vice-President of the Eastland National Bank, Eastland, Texas, described a "spirit of collapse" which followed the end of the oil boom there. "The Resettlement Administration came in the nick of time to save the situation," he said. "It enabled the farmers to obtain an entirely different view. It is an institution that demands and is receiving, to the best of my knowledge, the approval of all banking and business enterprises."

T. A. Carlisle, general merchant of Blackwell, Texas, wrote: "The Resettlement Administration has been a great help for the reason that most of the merchants in the rural districts bore the burden of caring for the destitute families, and the loss from sales to them was a constant drain." Another thing that perhaps is worth more than anything else, Mr. Carlisle wrote, is "that it has enabled these folks to buy a little more decent clothes, and in this community the church and Sunday school attendance is the best in ten years. These people feel that they are again a part of the community."

Among the leaders in religious about the work of the club, about the vitamins A and B, and about the leafy green and yellow vegetables which contain vitamins A, B and C. Miss Hawkins then distributed pamphlets on "Making a Garden Plan". Each member made her fall garden plan on this pamphlet.

Gertrude Weynand, Reporter.

F. F. A. NEWS.

The regular meeting of the D'Hanis Chapter of the Future Farmers of America was held Wednesday, November 11, at 7:30. Mr. J. P. Ephraim, local banker, spoke on "Keeping F. F. A. Records". Mr. Conser asked the Chapter to present a Chapel program. Refreshments of cake and hot chocolate were served.

Mr. William P. Norvell has returned from Kingsville, where he taught a course in leather tanning at the Texas College of Arts and Industries.

D'HANIS P. T. A. TO MEET.

The D'Hanis Parent-Teacher Association will meet November 18th at 3:15. Mrs. P. E. Dickson of San Antonio will be guest speaker.

ROTARY HEARS COOK AND NORVELL SPEAK.

R. J. Cook, head of the agriculture department of the Texas College of Arts and Industries, and William P. Norvell, vocational agriculture teacher at Sabinal and D'Hanis, were the principal speakers yesterday on the Rotary Club program devoted to the promotion of interest in the South Texas Live Stock Show and A. and I. Short Course.

Cook outlined the history of the short course from its beginning eight years ago and called attention to the highlights of this year's program, urging all business men, especially Rotarians to encourage both the show and the short course by their attendance.

Norvell, who is a recent graduate of A. and I., emphasized the value of the show and short course to the agricultural students of the college. He declared that the work done during the short course gives prospective agricultural teachers practical experience which will prove most valuable in their chosen vocation. He pointed out also the influence upon high school students which the short course exerts, and declared that many students will be added to A. and I. rolls through the drawing power of this agency.—The Kingsville Record, November 4, 1936.

work, M. Leo Rippey, Director of the General Board of Christian Education, writes from Nashville, Tennessee, to Director Trent that "this is one of the most constructive measures that could be developed by our government to meet the actual needs of a large number of needy people."

From Madill, Oklahoma, J. W. Little, President of the Little Hardware Company, wrote, "It has made business for us that we could not have had otherwise."

Another Madill merchant, Sam Hollingsworth, wrote, "I consider this the best government program to meet the needs of the rural people that he has ever been offered, and it is my hope that it will continue to help those to help themselves that have the ability and the initiative to do so."

W. E. Texler, President of the First State Bank of Rising Star, Texas, says that he is "voicing the opinion and the sentiment of every business man and banker in this and the surrounding counties" when he says that this work must not only go on but that it must be broadened. We hope and believe it necessary that the broadening of the work of the Resettlement Administration will provide a way whereby the tenant farmers of our community may be offered the opportunity to purchase and pay for the land they are cultivating and that they be given long easy terms for payment at a low rate of interest."

"This is a program that the local banks cannot approach, and it has been the policy of my bank and shall continue to be to cooperate with the activities of the Resettlement Administration in every way possible." County Judge Omar T. Burleson, of Jones County, Texas, writes: "My discussions with Resettlement clients indicate they have the attitude of independence and self-support. This is different from that of the relief client who feels that he is being supported by charity." Judge Burleson said that many of these farmers who have been rehabilitated would be "practically useless when engaged in any other work than farming. But they maintain a home and give their families fair advantages with the aid of the Resettlement Administration. Without criticism of any other government agency, Resettlement has proved to be the most valuable in this county."

CHAS. OEFINGER,

FORD DEALER SEES NEW CARS.

Mr. E. C. Jones on Return From Detroit Says 1,300,000 Sales Set as Goal for 1937.

A goal of 1,300,000 Ford V-8 sales in 1937 was set by W. C. Cowling, sales manager of the Ford Motor Co., for the 8,000 dealers in the United States and Canada who assembled Friday in the Coliseum of the State Fair Grounds for a preview of the new models.

Two sizes of V-8 engine and 11 body styles in the 1937 models were announced by Cowling, who told the dealers that they would be expected to handle between $475,000 and $500,000,000 worth of used cars in connection with their new car sales program for the year.

"The Ford Rouge plant and 15 other Ford assembly plants throughout the United States are now operating at close to capacity production to insure display of the new cars at all dealer showrooms Saturday, Nov. 14," Cowling said.

Welcomed by Edsel Ford.

The dealers were welcomed to the Coliseum by Edsel Ford, president of the company.

Henry Ford himself revealed that the new easy action brake on the 1937 V-8 is an adaptation of the old Model A Ford brake.

"We tried them all," Mr. Ford said and the old Model A brake was the best brake we could find, so we went back to it."

The dealers were served lunch in relays because of the large number to be accommodated. Then they were transported in busses to Greenfield Village, where Stark Hickey of Stark Hickey, Inc., as spokesman for a committee of Ford dealers, presented Henry Ford with the Cape Cod windmill that has been moved from the four corners at West Yarmouth, Mass., and re-erected in Greenfield Village. The mill was bought by the dealers in 1934.

Mill Built by Pilgrims.

Children of Ford employees took part in the morning program at the Coliseum, and the Edison Institute High School chorus participated in the windmill presentation ceremonies. The mill, built by the Pilgrims in 1633, is one of the oldest in the United States.

An appreciation of the gift was given by Margaret Jean Hindman, of the Institute High School, and a history of the mill was given by William McLeod, also of the high school.

Re-erected among other early American treasures in Greenfield Village, the old mill is being placed in running order, with its three-and-a-half-ton millstone, wooden gear and latticed arms, to which canvas sails were attached, still intact.

Friday night the dealers again were guests of the Ford company at a dinner and program in the Coliseum, and Saturday they visited the Ford rotunda and the Rouge plant.

IMPRESSIVE FARE AT COLONIAL COMING WEEK.

"Swing Time" showing currently at the Colonial Theatre as the latest song-and-dance special for Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, presents the co-stars in a spectacular production based on a double trouble romance. Featuring Victor Moore, Helen Broderick and Eric Blore in laugh-snaring roles, besides Betty Furness and Georges Metaxa, the RKO Radio film reveals two young ladies giving Astaire an ardent leap year chase. Titled to six Jerome Kern melodies, "Swing Time" traces the circumstances which make him devise fantastic extremes to rid himself of one of his two admirers.

Widely heralded as the strangest drama ever lived and acclaimed as one of the outstanding film achievements ever produced in Hollywood, "The Road to Glory", Twentieth Century-Fox production, comes to the Colonial Monday and Tuesday. Fredric March, Warner Baxter and Lionel Barrymore are starred and the supporting cast includes June Lang and Gregory Ratoff, as well as a host of other screen players.

In "The Country Doctor", the Fox picture coming to the Colonial Wednesday and Thursday, the world's five most famous baby girls are making their starring debut in a picture chockful of drama, suspense, comedy and romance. They are the Dionne Quintuplets who head an all-star Hollywood cast in a warmly human and gripping story of a doctor in the Canadian wilds, a man who sacrifices career and ambition to soothe the ills of helpless people. Jean Hersholt is the doctor. June Lang and Michael Whalen are prominent in the supporting cast, coupled in romantic roles.
